

Aiden:

Worked on getting and revising product proposal feedback.

I am going to do everything entailed here:

"We are submitting our final draft for approval tomorrow it will require everyones help, I will compile my notes and post them, but generally speaking if we could all hop on a call and hash out all the feedback we got tonight I think that will be really good for our success at getting approved.

while we are waiting for feedback over the weekendI want us all to be honing in on each feature's user stories(functionality) in our brd. I will create a template for the user stories. Once we get the feedback we will do an epic turn around no later than Sunday and email it right back to him to be approved along with the BRD we will have developed by then, come Monday we all pester him for approval."
